How to crochet a blanket for beginners pattern

Even if you've never held a crochet hook, you can learn some basic crochet stitches to familiarize yourself with the craft. Within in a short time, you'll be ready to finish your first crochet project. What Is Crochet? Crochet is a needle craft that involves a crochet hook and some sort of yarn or thread. You can use very thick yarn or fine thread to crochet, and the weight of your medium will determine the size hook you use. Crochet patterns begin with a foundation chain, then build onto the chain with various other stitches. You work the stitches back and forth to make new rows, or around in a circular fashion (known as rounds). Crochet projects include many different items, including afghans, pillows, scarves, hats, socks, sweaters, doilies and much more. Getting Started With Crochet The best way to learn how to crochet is to learn a few basic stitches and then practice them with a hook and a ball of yarn. Once you learn a few stitches, you can then move on to learning how to follow a pattern so you can make a project. Patterns involve stitch abbreviations, with instructions to turn your work after each row, or to join stitches (which doesn't involve turning). You'll also see instructions to increase (which involves adding stitches) or to decrease (which involves eliminating stitches). Your pattern might also instruct you to repeat stitches. Basic Crochet Stitches Your first step for crocheting involves placing a slipknot onto the hook. Once you attach the slipknot, you're ready to make your first chain. Chaining simply involves hooking the working length of yarn (not the tail) and pulling it through to complete one chain. Perform this process for each chain you need to make. Single crochet involves inserting your hook into a chain, yarning over one time and pulling through the chain to place two loops on your crochet hook. Next, yarn over again and pull the hook through both loops to complete a single crochet stitch. Repeat the process in each chain, according to your pattern. Double crochet is the same as single crochet, except you begin by yarning over before you insert your hook into a chain. Yarn over a second time and pull your yarn through the chain so you have three loops on your hook. Yarn over again and then pull through two loops, repeating a second time to complete the stitch. Use a Printable Crochet Stitch Guide As you're learning the craft, it may help to download and print a crochet stitch guide so you can refer to the steps as you work. Many websites have printable crochet stitch guides available in PDF format, easily downloaded and printed for your ongoing use. The step-by-step instructions with diagrams and photos make learning even easier. Beginner Projects to Try Once you have the basics of chaining, single crocheting, double crocheting and more, you should be ready to try a beginner crochet project. One of the easiest projects to start with is a scarf. Choose a skein of worsted weight yarn in a color you like, and use a "G" or "H" crochet hook. Chain 20 or 25 chains to create the width of your scarf. Then, make single or double crochet stitches to crochet rows back and forth until your scarf is as long as you want it. MORE FROM QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET Today I'm sharing my top easy crochet blanket patterns for beginners for you to enjoy! I learnt to crochet about a decade ago when I had some knee surgery that meant I couldn't be mobile for six weeks and I needed to keep myself busy. My Mum suggested than an easy crochet blanket would be the perfect place to start! At the time I lived in a one bedroom first floor flat with just stairs for access so I had no way of getting downstairs to get out and about and so I decided I should focus on something new and positive while my body healed from the surgery. I'd always been crafty as a youngster and my Mum is amazing at anything crafty she turns her hand to and so I asked her to teach me to crochet. I have her to thank for everything HanJan and especially for my love of easy blankets! I had a few friends expecting babies at the time and so I thought I could knock up a few granny square blankets to celebrate their new arrivals. Boy, have I knocked up a few crochet blankets since then! I thought I'd take the chance to share my experience with learning to crochet and let you know my top 6 easy crochet blanket patterns for beginners to learn to crochet. Getting Started with crochet blankets At first it felt awful and I hated it. I didn't know how to hold the hook, my Mum went waaaaay too fast (bless her) and it just didn't make any sense to me. Fortunately I had the time and energy to persevere and slowly but surely it came to me. My muscle memory started to kick in and those tight awkward chains started to flow and I could finally work my stitches into them without having a massive argument with them! I would say it took at least 4 or 5 blankets for me to feel comfortable with my technique so don't despair, it will happen! It's like anything in life where practise makes perfect and all that jazz. So my best advice for anyone starting out learning to crochet is to be kind to yourself. Don't beat yourself up if your first few (or more than a few) attempts don't work out. Keep going. It will happen. I didn't know anyone else who crocheted and so I just copied my Mums technique which is pretty similar to throwing your yarn in knitting so to pure crocheters it looks really weird. Sorry. That's how I crochet. I would encourage everyone to just find what works for you. Don't worry about how you hold your hook or your yarn, just find what's comfortable for you. When you find the perfect way you'll know and the muscle memory you develop will mean you'll find it hard to do it any other way! Or at least I do! Why to start by crocheting a blanket? Lots of people ask me what the best things are to crochet for beginners. Controversially I usually say blankets. Most people I know are fans of scarves, dishcloths, cushions and other smaller projects but I think you should just go for it with a decent sized blanket. There are a few reasons for this. Firstly, repetition. If you choose a blanket with a really simple repeat for the pattern then you won't only be learning how to crochet but you'll be learning about your hook and yarn positioning and action, you'll develop an even tension and eventually you'll get lost in the mindfulness of the blanket. The moment you get lost in it is the best feeling - it means you're there. Your hands know what they are doing and you can pop on your favourite box set and crochet away. Secondly, blankets. I mean who doesn't love a blanket?! They are a perfect gift, or to keep for yourself. They are something to be really proud of and admire. I never tire of making blankets and I know so many others are like me too. What you need to start Starting a project is really simple, you just need a crochet hook and some yarn. Once you get started you'll figure out what your favourite size of hook is. Mine is a 5mm, always has been! Either wooden, resin, bamboo or metal ones are great. I swear by my Paris Streamline crochet hooks but my Mum uses metal, it's entirely up to you. When choosing yarn I'd go for something like double knit or worsted weight yarn. It's not too big that you feel like you're wrestling and not so small that you feel like you can't see the stitches. You'll also need some sharp embroidery scissors (they don't have to be fancy ones) and a needle with a big eye to thread your yarn through. That's it! Literally all you need to get going.
